Furniture for the Curious

SixtySix

A mobile media wall for the busy workplace.

Designed for workplaces that require flexibility and need to be reconfigured to suit the task on demand.

Blending seamlessly into the Thinking Works mobile accessory range, SixtySix can be moved throughout the office to provide a solution for face-to-face meetings, presentations, virtual meetings and the cheeky need to relax with a movie.

01 Two end panel profiles shaped to accommodate an AV monitor.

Universal mount for AV monitor.

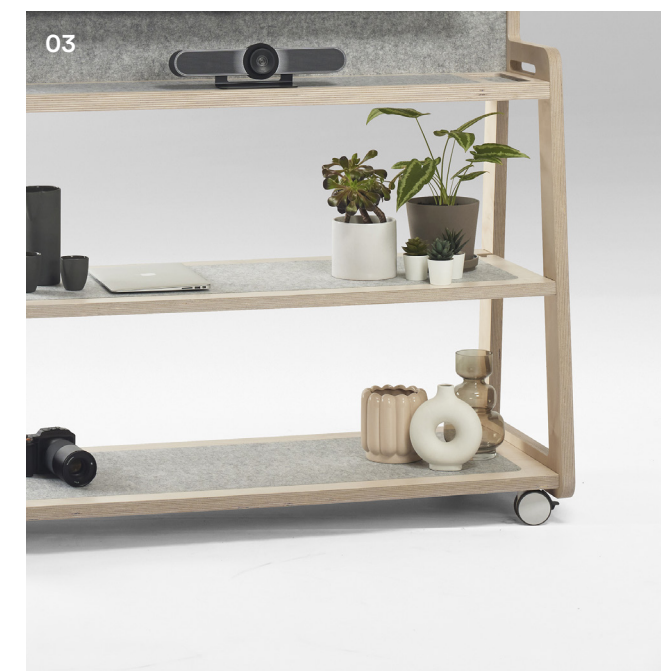

Acoustic PET backing conceals excess cabling

Access to internal cabling via removable whiteboard on rear of unit

02 Storage for whiteboard markers and device remotes

03 Open shelving below monitor

04 Mobile locking castors for easy and safe relocation

Easily moved for planned or spontaneous activities, SixtySix adapts to the team needs and room use. Options for a magnetic whiteboard or a pinboard on the rear side of the mounted AV screen provides functionality on both sides of the unit with a neat and discreet design for the storage of unsightly cables. Shelving to the lower levels of the unit provide extra storage for whatever the team needs.

Sustainability

Sustainability is extremely important to us. Our product designs carefully consider the impact on the environment from the initial concept through to the choice of material, process of production, lifecycle, and recyclability.

Most importantly, we care about people – your people, our people, our supplier's people, and all the people who at some point may end up working in the manufacturing industry.

We are committed to eliminating modern slavery, we carefully select our supply partners, and we double check the suppliers of our supply partners to ensure we are working with people who are aligned with our views on human rights.

We work with consultants to obtain appropriate industry standard certification and to assess our performance on an ongoing basis. We continually consider our environmental impact, social responsibility, and strategies towards a sustainable future.
